

MARSH & McLENNAN AGENCY TO HOST SEMINAR SERIES HIGHLIGHTING BENEFIT STRATEGIES TO MAXIMIZE EMPLOYER COST CONTAINMENT

Atlanta, GA – March 29, 2016 – Marsh & McLennan Agency (MMA), Mid-Atlantic Region, announced they will be hosting seminars in multiple locations to deliver impactful strategies on cost management goals to help employers take the right step forward with their benefits strategy.

Starting April 4, Marsh & McLennan Agency will be hosting these MMA ULearn seminars in seven locations. The kick-off will start in Washington, D.C., and then carry on to Richmond, VA, Raleigh, NC, Atlanta, GA, Greenville, SC, Charlotte, NC, and end on April 15 in Greensboro, NC.

The discussions will focus on emerging benefit strategies that deliver real savings including new approaches to proactively manage rapidly rising pharmacy costs, how to effectively integrate voluntary benefit plans into core offerings, and a discussion on new types of value-based insurance plans that reduce costs by driving effective plan utilization. Compliance partners, Marathas, Barrow and Weatherhead, will be joining all sessions to highlight the critical things employers need to be doing and planning for in 2016.

“We are pleased to have the opportunity to present a seminar series for our clients again this year not only to learn more about industry trends and innovations within employee benefits that offer greater control of the health care spend, but to also allow for an environment of open discussion so they know we are here to help guide them through any big changes to their organization’s benefit structure,” says Guy Morrison, Executive Vice President, Employee Benefits.
